Mya Folke.

Gotta take a little time out from my book, so might as well write you while I'm about it. Have been reading Lloyd Douglas' book, "The Robe" for the past day and a half and can hardly lay it down! I practically have to make myself break away from it to do the necessary chores. Don't know when a book has gotten me so spell-bound. Part of it is due to the fact of having personally seen lots of the places the book is set in and, too, being able to visualize the times and dress of the characters in it. You should read it for I know you'll enjoy it. The emperor's palace was actually seen by me when I was in "hot camp" for it was there I lived!

Am glad you got so many of my letters all at the same time. - It at least proves I write once in a while, tho' probably not as often as I should. - I keep thinking tho' that one of these days, I might drop by in person. Probably none of us could stand that shock? - Anyway - until then - keep 'em crossed!

Lots of Love,
Frank
